DETAILED ACTION

1. The following communication is in response to Applicant's amendment filed on 08 February 2007.

Status of Claims

2. Claims 1-4, 8 and 12 are currently amended. Claims 1-14 are currently pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1, 6-8 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Fougnyes et al. (hereinafter Fougnyes) U.S. Patent 5,854,975.

Regarding claims 1, 8, and 12 Fougnyes discloses a method for updating a subscriber's account credit in a telecommunications system where at least two different types of buyable vouchers can be used for making deposits in the account, the types of buyable vouchers different from each other at least in the price of a call unit, the method comprising:

Art Unit: 3691

defining at least two different ways of updating the credit, the different ways of updating differing from each other at least in the way the credit is calculated (column 12, lines 22-27; Examiner notes that air-time credit and monthly access credit qualify as two different ways of updating the credit, because one is calculated on an air-time basis and the other on a monthly-basis; Also the card value contains variable credit values);

maintaining information indicating the type of a last used voucher of the subscriber (column 12, lines 17-21; Examiner notes that the POS system holds a database of all "spent" or "used" calling cards requires that the information indicating the type of a last used voucher for an area: Also see column 12, lines 35-47; Examiner notes that the account balance provides information regarding the balance of credit left in either air-time or monthly-basis. This provides an indication of the last used voucher by depicting what type of account balance the subscriber has);

receiving a deposit identifying a new voucher, which the subscriber is going to use to update the credit (column 12, lines 3-16; Examiner notes the buyer obtains a new air-time card or monthly-basis card);

determining the type of the second voucher (column 12, lines 35-47; Examiner notes the card number for the air-time card or monthly-access card is validated); and selecting the way of calculating the credit on the basis of the type of the last used voucher and on the basis of the type of the second voucher (column 12, lines 61-63; Examiner notes that the account is credits according the card type and value).

Claims 2-7, 9-11, 13 and 14 stand rejected as stated in the previous office action and stand or fall with their independent claims.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 08 February 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive as discussed above.

Regarding claims 1-14, Applicant argues that Fougries fails to disclose two different ways to calculate the credit. In Response: As discussed above, air-time and monthly-basis as well as a variable amount qualify as two different ways to calculate a credit. Claims must be given their broadest reasonable interpretation air-time, monthly-basis and variable amounts are all different ways to calculate credit.

In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., Applicant argues that Fougries check does not include who used the prepaid calling card, or when it was used) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

For these reasons claims 1-14 stand rejected and Applicant's request for allowance is respectfully declined.

Art Unit: 3691

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
